

- Q: Why do I have to cite my resources?
 A: When you use another’s published research in your paper, then you need to acknowledge their original work in your Works Cited page.
- Q: Can’t I just use EasyBib?
 A: Using this NHHS Works Cited style sheet helps you to find all your resource elements for a proper citation. Sometimes it’s easy to miss what’s necessary by using only EasyBib.

Works Cited is centered at the top of your page.

Times New Roman 12 font.

Each citation begins with the first line at the left margin. Each line thereafter will indent ½ inch. To do that in MS Word, select Format from top menu, then select Paragraph. Find Indentation and select Special. Finally, select Hanging from the pull down menu. Just like this!

List is alphabetically ordered by author’s last name. If no author is given, then alphabetize by title and ignore the articles A, An, and The. See Example of Works Cited

In-Text citation:

Book with pages (Use author and page): Our United States Supreme Court is the “highest appellate court” (Kronenwetter 25).

Website with author (Use author): Presidents have the procedural authority to “nominate justices” (Dorsen).

Website, no author (use title of webpage) : Supreme Court Justices are appointed by “consent of the Senate” (“Supreme”).

"Refrigeration." World Book Encyclopedia, 2009.

Refrigeration is the process of producing low temperatures. It takes place when heat is removed from a substance. Cooling can be achieved with ice or snow, or by machines. For thousands of years, people have used some kind of refrigeration to cool beverages and preserve food. Since the mid-1800's, refrigeration has been widely used to keep food from spoiling.

Today, people store foods in home refrigerators and freezers. Grocery stores and food companies may use refrigerated display cases, freezing rooms, and cold-storage warehouses. Fresh foods are carried long distances in refrigerated trucks, refrigerated railway cars, and refrigerated compartments of ships. People on camping trips can keep food fresh for days with portable refrigerators installed in their vehicles.

Refrigeration has many uses besides preserving food. Air conditioning depends on refrigeration to cool homes, offices, theaters, stores, and automobiles. Refrigeration makes it possible to store serums, vaccines, blood plasma, and other lifesaving medical supplies. Drug companies use refrigeration to make penicillin and other drugs. Cleaners and fur companies store furs in refrigerated vaults to protect them from moths and to keep the furs in good condition. Florists refrigerate cut

YAKAMA

The Yakama occupied ancestral territory along the river named after them, the Yakima, a tributary of the Columbia River, in what now is southern Washington State, and are classified as part of the Plateau Culture Area. Their name, pronounced YAK-ul-muh and usually spelled Yakima until officially changed by the tribe in 1994, possibly means "a growing family" in the Salishan language of neighboring tribes or "the pregnant ones" in their own Sahaptian dialect, part of the Penutian phylum. Another Native name of the Yakama, or Lower Yakama, is Wigwaimin, meaning "narrow river people," referring to a narrows in the Yakima River where their principal village was located. The related Pishwawapam, the "stony rock people," sometimes are discussed as the Upper Yakama. The Yakama were perhaps one people in ancient times with the PALOUSE. Like other PLATEAU INDIANS, the Yakama primarily subsisted on salmon during annual spawning runs, as well as small game, roots, berries, and nuts.

Yamagami, Makiko, et al. “Decreasing trend of elemental carbon concentration with changes in major sources at Mega city Nagoya, Central Japan.” ScienceDirect, 10 Nov. 2018. Elsevier, doi.org/10.1016/j.atmosenv.2018.11.014. Accessed 12 Nov. 2018.
